

What happens after I am sentenced?

You can be sentenced to a fine, probation or imprisonment. If you are sentenced to probation, you should report to the U.S. Probation Office immediately following sentencing. Supervision is based on your residence. If you do not live within the District of Idaho, your supervision will be transferred to the district where you reside.

If you are sentenced to imprisonment, and you are not directly committed to the custody of Bureau of Prisons from Court, the Judge may allow you to self-surrender to an institution designated by the Bureau of Prisons or to the U.S. Marshal Service. When this happens, you remain subject to the originally imposed bail conditions.