

ILHS Authors “Best Article Awards” from The Advocate

Since 2006, the Idaho Legal History Society has sponsored an issue of the Idaho State Bar’s magazine The Advocate. These issues have focused on various historical themes including the “Trial of the Century” involving “Big” Bill Haywood, loyalty oath cases in Idaho, the ILHS on-going Oral History Project, and the history of legal education in Idaho.

Each year The Advocate’s Editorial Advisory Board selects one article published in its past year for its “Best Article” award. Criteria include: writing that is clear, concise and containing information that is interesting, pertinent and relevant to members of the Bar. As a true testament to the good work done by ILHS members, The Advocate’s “Best Article” award has been presented to two ILHS authors as follows:

- John F. Greenfield, Huntley Park, LLC, Boise, was awarded the 2006-2007 “Best Article” award for his article Idaho Comes of Age in High Profile 1907 Murder Case, which appeared in the December 2006 issue.
- Debora K. Kristensen, Givens Pursley, LLP, Boise, was awarded the 2008-2009 “Best Article” award for her article entitled Perspectives from the Past: Oral Histories of Idaho Lawyers and Judges, which appeared in the November/December 2008 issue.

Each of these articles, including past ILHS-sponsored issues in The Advocate, are available on the ILHS website.
